ABOUT ME

I am an Atlanta-based performer, choreographer, and teaching artist. I am all about positivity and open-mindedness, and am passionate about education, community outreach, and cultural diversity in the arts.

I have been working with children, teens, and adults since high-school. Theatre and dance are my greatest passions in life, and it brings me much joy and fulfillment to help pass that onto others. While I love to teach, I also recognize that I myself will always be a student first, in theatre and in life. I believe this mindset is what allows me to be the most mindful me I can be.
